EASTERN EXTENSION.

IMPROVED RESULTS ON YEARS WORKING.
AN ENCOURAGING OUTLOOK.

The ordinary general meeting of the Eastern Extension, Australasia and China Telegraph Company, Limited, was held recently under the presidency of Sir J. Wolfe-Barry, K.C.B.

The general manager (Mr. F. E. Hesse) read the notice convening the meeting and the auditor's report.

The chairman said: Ladies and gentlemen, we meet to-day under the shadow of a great national bereavement and disaster in the death of King Edward, who was a monarch revered and appreciated by the whole country and, I may say, by every civilised nation—a monarch whose wise judgment and profound political wisdom, combined with a personal interest and sympathy with the highest and lowest of his subjects, were most remarkable. His high qualities were and are highly appreciated by one and all, so that each one of us feels his death to be not only a public disaster, but also a deep personal loss. I feel sure that the meeting will wish to record its sense of loss, its sympathy and condolence with the King and the Royal Family, and its attachment and loyalty to the Crown, and, therefore, I wish to move for the acceptance of this meeting: That the shareholders of the Eastern Extension, Australasia and China Telegraph Company, in general meeting assembled, humbly beg leave to express to His Majesty the King their profound grief at the death of his illustrious and universally beloved father, King Edward VII., and to offer their personal sympathy with His Majesty and the Royal Family in their bereavement. The shareholders further asked to be allowed to express their profound and dutiful attachment to the Crown and their heartfelt sense of loyalty to His Majesty. (Hear, hear.)

The Marquess of Tweeddale, K.T., seconded the resolution, which was carried unanimously by the meeting, upon standing.

The chairman, continuing, said: Turning to the accounts which we have to present, I will remark that when I last had the pleasure of addressing you I mentioned that the commercial depression which had prevailed in the Far East for some considerable time, and had adversely affected our traffic receipts, appeared to be at last passing away. The improved report and accounts now before the meeting show that the views I then expressed were justified, and I am very happy to say the present outlook appears to be still encouraging. Dealing with the revenue, you will find that the figures for the past six months show that the gross receipts amounted to round numbers to £15,000, against £10,000 for the corresponding period of 1908, showing an increase of £5,000. The actual result, however, is better than the comparative figures indicate, seeing that £15,000 of exceptional revenue in connection with the Tasmanian cables was included in the accounts for 1908 which does not appear in the present accounts; consequently, if the exceptional revenue were left out of the comparison, the receipts would show an increase for the half-year of foundly £3,000. The working and other expenses amounted to round numbers to £14,000 against £13,000 for the corresponding period of 1908, showing a decrease of £1,000, which is principally due to the expenses attending the maintenance of our cables having been considerably less during the past six months than in the same period of the previous year; the results are as follows:—Gross receipts amount to £15,000 for 1909, against £10,000 for 1908, or an increase of £5,000. The expenditure amounted to £14,000 for 1909, against £13,000 for 1908, showing a decrease of £1,000. Thus, in spite of the depression in the first half of 1909, the net result of the past year's working was 11,000 better than in 1908. The net profit for the half year was, accordingly, £5,000, and after adding nearly £5,000 brought forward from the previous half-year, there remained an available balance of £10,000. The usual quarterly interim dividends of 2s. 6d. per share were paid during the past year, and it is now proposed to distribute a final dividend for the year of like amount, making a total dividend of 5 per cent. It is also proposed to pay a bonus of 4 per share, or 2 per cent, making a total distribution for the year 1909 of 7 per cent, on the share capital. The usual additions have been made during the past year to the maintenance of ships, insurance and depreciation, and after applying £50,000 of the revenue balance to the general reserve fund, the sum of £10,000 is carried forward, or £8,000 more than in the corresponding period of 1908, when £12,000 was carried forward. I now move the adoption of the report and accounts and the declaration of the dividends set out therein.

The Marquess of Tweeddale, seconded the resolution, which was carried unanimously.

The retiring directors (the Marquess of Tweeddale, K.T., and Sir John Wolfe Barry, K.C.B.) were re-elected, and the retiring auditors re-appointed.

A hearty vote of thanks to the chairman, directors and staff of the company terminated the proceedings.

WEATHER-FORCAST AND STORM-WARNINGS ISSUED FROM THE HONGKONG OBSERVATORY.

METEOROLOGICAL SIGNALS.

Meteorological signals are hoisted on the mast in front of the Water Police Station at Tsim Sha Tsui for the information of masters of vessels leaving the port. They do not necessarily imply that bad weather is expected here.

Red Signals indicate that the centre is believed to be more than 300 miles away from the Colony.

Black Signals indicate that the centre is believed to be less than 300 miles away from the Colony.

The above signals will, as heretofore, be hoisted only when typhoons exist in such positions or are moving in such directions that information regarding them is considered to be of importance to the Colony or to shipping leaving the harbour.

These signals are repeated at the Harbour Office, H.M.S. Tamar, Green Island Signal Mast, and the Flagstaff on the premises of the Hongkong and Kowloon Wharf and Godown Company at Kowloon.

URGENT SIGNAL.

In addition to the above, when it is expected that the wind may increase to full typhoon force at any moment, the following Urgent Signal will be made at the Water Police Station, and repeated at the Harbour Office:—

THREE EXPLOSIVE BOMBS, AT INTERVALS OF TEN SECONDS.

A Black Cross will be hoisted at the same time, superior to the other shapes.

NIGHT SIGNAL.

The following Night Signals will be exhibited from the Flagstaff on the roof of the Water Police Station at Kowloon, the Harbour Office Flagstaff, and H.M.S. Tamar.

I. Three Lights Vertical, Green Green Green, indicates that a typhoon is believed to be situated more than 300 miles from the Colony.

II. Three Lights Vertical, Green Red Green, indicates that a typhoon is believed to be situated less than 300 miles from the Colony.

III. Three Lights Vertical, Red Green Red, indicates that the wind may be expected to increase to full typhoon force at any moment.

No. III. Signal will be accompanied by the Explosive Bombs, as above, in the event of the information conveyed by this signal being first published by night.

These Night Signals will be substituted for the Day Signals at sunset, and will, when necessary, be altered during the night.

SUPPLEMENTARY WARNINGS.

Gap Rock. Aberdeen. San Ki Wan. Tai Po.

Waglan. San Ki Wan. Tai Po.

Stanley. San Ki Wan. Tai Po.

Cape Collinson. San Ki Wan. Tai Po.

This will indicate that there is a typhoon somewhere in the China Sea, and that a Storm Warning is hoisted in the Harbour.

Further details can always be obtained from the Observatory, or by signal from the Observatory.

JAPAN IN LONDON.

WHERE EAST AND WEST MEET.
WHITE CITY RE-OPENED.

The Japan-British Exhibition at Shepherd's Bush opened its doors to the public this morning, reports the Poll Mail Gazette of 14th ult.

It had, on the intention of the promoters to mark the event by an imposing pageant and brilliant ceremonial, in which the principal figures would have been the Prince and Princess of Wales and his Imperial Highness Sir Sadunari Fushimi, but in consequence of the national mourning these picturesque formalities were dispensed with.

To the Japanese officials in particular, from Prince Fushimi down to the humblest worker in the Japanese section, King Edward's death came as crushing misfortune. The Japanese Commissioners, in consultation with the British Committee, had decided that in face of the great calamity which had overtaken the nation the Exhibition should be kept closed until after his Majesty's funeral, and it was only after the receipt of the gracious message from King George intimating that the opening should take place immediately that the decision was made to open the doors to-day.

Without the ostentation and the flourish of trumpets customary on such occasions the great enterprise of the allied nations of the Occident and the Orient was therefore thrown open to the public at eleven o'clock to-day.

Immediately after the opening, Mr. Imre Kiralfy, the Commissioners-General, received the following telegram from the Hon. President, H.R.H. Prince Arthur of Connaught:

On the occasion of the opening of the Exhibition please accept my best wishes for its success.

ARTHUR, P. Vice-President.
The following telegram was sent in reply: To H.R.H. Prince Arthur of Connaught, Clarence House, S.W.

I am deeply grateful to your Royal Highness for the kind thought and gracious message of good wishes for the success of the Japan-British Exhibition, which are highly appreciated by all associated with it.

IMRE KIRALFY.
Over the main entrance in the Oxford-road the British and Japanese flags still flew at half-mast as the first batch of visitors had their first view of the wonders of the Land of the Rising Sun, of the land of flowers and sunshine.

After the Japanese shops, packed with countless quaint articles of native workmanship, hundreds of the famous dwarf trees, ancient and gnarled like the giants of the forest, first attract the attention. Over all hangs a profusion of cherry blossom, and wisteria. In the spacious entrance hall itself is the exquisite model of Miyajima on the Inland Sea, one of the beauty spots of Japan, perhaps the finest example of the art of miniature in the whole Exhibition.

Next "Japan in the Four Seasons" is reached, and after passing through these remarkable reproductions of Japanese scenery in spring, summer, autumn, and winter the visitor breathes in a more familiar atmosphere until the great Temple Gates are reached at the Wood-lane entrance, where is gathered together some really magnificent specimens of Japanese architecture. But above all towers the great Temple, with its exquisite carvings, while in view of the ascent monument are the tableaux representing twenty-five centuries in the national history.

EMBARRASMENT OF RICHES.
Thence onward one may wander at will amid scenes typical of the every-day life of our Far East. There are the buildings devoted to handicrafts and industries; there is the Japanese fair, the aboriginal Formosan village, peopled with native natives, the Korean exhibits, etc., and when one is satiated with the never-ending panorama there is the section of the Japanese gardens.

Or, in the comparative quietude of the Palace of Fine Arts one may contemplate the art of a civilization beside which that of our own is as yesterday. And in juxtaposition to the wonderful "Treasures of the Nation" which the Mikado and his nobles have sent for our edification, there may be seen an exhibition of modern British art, which has rarely been surpassed.

But there are hundred and one other departments of this great exhibition which cannot receive even cursory notice in the space of a brief newspaper article. On all sides there is an embarrassment of riches.

The Women's Work sections (both Japanese and British), the Machinery Hall, and the Hall of Chemical Industry, the Hall of Music, the Dress and Fashionable sections are but a few of the many parts of a great whole which covers the every-day activities of two nations.

Besides the main Japanese groups, which are roughly classified—Education, Fine Arts, Liberal Arts, Civil Engineering, and Transportation, Agriculture, Horticulture, Forestry, Sport and Fishing, Alimentation, Mines and Metallurgy, Decoration and Furnishing, Textiles, Chemical Industries, Various Industries, Social Economy, Colonization, Armaments, etc., there are a multiplicity of subsections which make detailed notice impossible at this stage.

Exclusive of the Government departments there are over 2000 private Japanese exhibitors. Add to these an equal number of British exhibitors, whose exhibits range from a sixty-four tonne naval gun to a dainty fan, and some idea may be gathered of the variety and extent of the things to be seen.

ANCIENT EGYPTIAN
MARRIAGES.

A WIFE ON PROBATION.

Among the most interesting finds which have been made at Luxor from time to time are a number of ostraca or inscribed potsherds, many of which are marriage contracts dating from about 1300—A. D. 300. Some of these contracts are of great interest, as they reveal to us many curious points in the matrimonial laws of Egypt at the period above-mentioned. One of these documents proves that it was possible to take a wife on "trial," for a certain period, at the end of which, subject to certain conditions, she was fully acknowledged as wife. One of these interesting contracts reads:—

"I take thee, Tamia, daughter of Pamonthis, into my house to be my lawful wife, for the term of five months. Accordingly I deposit for you in the Temple of Hathor, the sum of four silver stater, which will be forfeited to you if I dismiss you before the conclusion of the five months; and, besides this, my banker shall do something for you. But if you leave me on your own account before the end of the five months, the above sum which I have deposited shall be refunded to me."

This curious document is written in "amotic" the common writing of the people, and dates probably from the first half of the second century B.C. As will be seen from the above this was not a case of concubinage, as the writer distinctly says "my lawful wife." The probable solution is that as the average Egyptian bled a childless marriage should there be no sign of an offspring during the period of probation the woman would be dismissed with compensation, but should the reverse be the case she would come into her full rights. An Egyptian who died childless was thought to have no one who would offer the necessary prayers and sacrifices at his tomb for the repose of the "Ka," or spiritual double, and with the possible chance of avoiding such a calamity the above curious matrimonial custom may have existed from very early times. Many of such documents are in the British Museum, the Louvre, and other large collections.

HONGKONG, FRIDAY, JUNE 17, 1910.

FROM CHINA TO PERU.

There must be quite a number of people still living in this Colony who can remember the little matter of the Huascar and the Shah. At the time when it happened it was a big matter, and created a great sensation. The world has moved so fast since then that to excite real interest in the public an ordinary act of piracy or war is barely sufficient, and requires more than a mere dozen lives lost, or the paralysis of a whole trade by the tearing up of a Treaty. Nowadays people need the holocausts of Liao-yang and Port Arthur, or the shambles of Tiao-shima to awaken their languid attention. Our youth was content with less. When Señor Don Nicolás de Piérola, husband of the prettiest lady of her race in either Old or New Spain, and himself the handsomest, gayest and most daring of all the fiery blooded young descendants of the conquistadores in Peru, grew tired of leading a godly, righteous and sober life in Lima, and ran away with the ironclad battleship Huascar, he realized the glorious dream of ardent youth not only in Spanish lands but wherever British boys read British tales of adventure. He was proclaimed not merely a rebel but a pirate, and all the Navies of the World were invited to assist in the taking, burning, sinking, or otherwise "spitting" of the giddy sea-bandit's ironclad terror of the for some few previous years pacific coast of sub-equatorial South America. The Huascar was a small, but for those days powerful ship. She was armoured; her turret was 51 inches thick, and carried two heavy Armstrong guns. She had a subsidiary armament also which then could be formidable against a ship unprovided with protective plates. Don Nicolás merely "billed up" several towns and lots of ships, but he made one bad mistake. He stopped on the high seas two ships belonging to the Navigation Company which carried the mails, and oh, far more than any mails, the British flag. In those days the British flag really was more than a bit of coloured bunting, with crowns on it. The Republic of Peru had declared that it was not responsible for the acts of the Huascar or of the furious young pirate who owned her. Great Britain's Navy in Pacific waters woke up rubbing its eyes on being told that British ships had been interfered with on the high seas "while we were so near, too!" Admiral de Horsey did not snort. Admirals never do that. But he took P.M.S. Shah and H.M.S. Amethyst down the coast, in a fine rage, vowing that he didn't care how much armour the pirate carried, and that he and his unarmoured ships would capture him fast enough. Well, we know he didn't. The Huascar put up a good fight against the British ships, or rather against the Shah, for the Amethyst was practically out of it. The Shah had better guns, her two 9-inch guns and eight 64 pounders were well manned, and never letting the Huascar get near enough to ram, the Shah fighting savagely from three to the afternoon until evening, had done enough damage to the pirate to claim victory. But Don Nicolás Piérola's ship was not inclined to meet an angry British Admiral with theories about summary treatment of persons who deal otherwise than with great politeness towards British ships on the high seas. It must be remembered that these were the days before Radical Government, before little Englandism, before the British Empire had to be bought all over again and paid for at all sorts of places like Omdurman and Spionkop. Don Nicolás and his men were really brave, but they couldn't fight without time to rest and recoil, so the Huascar went "up stick and away" to Callao and surrendered to Captain Moore, if we remember right, of the Peruvian Navy, who afterwards fell on the deck of the Huascar in her last despairing gallant battle against the Chileans some years later. Now who would have thought it? The Peruvians did not hang Don Nicolás. True, they intended to shoot him, but with regret, as one who had stood up to a British Admiral and had made a remarkably good fight of it. Piérola, as we mentioned above, was of good blood. He escaped, and here is the most Chinese part of the whole business. He survived to fight for his country in a truly admirable manner against the Chileans—if he had had a little more money and a few officers to help him, men like Grau and Bolognesi, he would have changed history—and in 1895 he became President of Peru. Here he begins to command the attention of not only writers of memoirs, but those of the history of nations. His first act was utterly to reform the finances and the currency. He gave to Peru the blessing, the inestimable blessing, because it can be estimated by solid weight in £ s. d., of a gold standard. Everyone who has done business with Peru remembers that lustrous coin the "sol," which like the Mexican dollar always seemed to diminish in value the more you made of them, and also, paradoxical as it may sound, to dwindle down to nearly nothing when you were hard up. That miserable "sol," thanks to the genius, ability and honesty of the ex-pirate is now a much nicer coin to earn than the Mexican dollar. There are ten "sols" to the Peruvian gold pound, which is the monetary unit, consisting of a gold coin the diameter of which is 22 millimetres with the weight of 7 grammes 988 milligrammes and a fineness of 0.916 2/3 millesimals. It exactly equals the English sovereign, which was made legal tender in Peru in 1897. Later the Peruvian mints have coined a half-pound and a small two sol coin of the same fineness. In Peru, gold pounds or English sovereigns circulate to-day at par with the silver currency. Small transactions continue as ever to use silver and copper as the circulating medium. Any fluctuation in the rate of exchange on London ever since 1897 has always been round 74 pence to the sol, or the "gold point" of the sol, and has invariably been in proportion to the actual expense arising from the transport in bulk of large funds from one commercial centre to another. Peru would have continued in the isolation in which the silver standard kept it as regards foreign capital, if it had not made a gold coin its monetary unit. The country absolutely needed capital for the exploitation of its natural wealth. We wishing to verify the assertions of our informants concerning the extraordinary development now taking place in Peru in the new railways over the Andes to the Amazon head waters and the forests of Napo and Marañon, and the enormous rubber trade from that region, have had the privilege of hearing the authentic facts from Señor Macedo the Consul for the Republic of Peru in this Colony. He entirely reassures us as to the disputes with Ecuador and Colombia concerning frontiers. Mr. Knox is arbitrating, and so justice may leave the question without anxiety. As to Chile, the outstanding difficulty about Tacna and Arica will not lead to war. Señor Macedo is sure of this, but of course diplomatic reticence forbids him to dilate on the recent negotiations. We are strongly of opinion that Peru has, of course, a perfect right to insist on the performance of Treaty stipulations in this matter. Is Chile to tear up the Treaty of Ancón without a single nation in all the world protesting against such an act of cruel and wanton violence? These two provinces were to be occupied by Chile for ten years only, and during that time the Peruvians and Chileans resident there should be under impartial government by Chilean law. The vast majority of decent people in those provinces are Peruvians. At the end of the ten years a "plebiscite" was to be held to decide which country was to keep Tacna and Arica. The winner was to pay the other the sum of one million pounds. The Peruvians are ready enough to pay, and we have it on the authority of (1) a banker, and (2) a gentleman very high in the diplomatic service of a European country, that Peru can afford the money, now, large sum as it seems. Of course, the country wants peace, and given only that one boon will once more astonish the world with its vast wealth, the "riches of Peru." Chile used the pretext that in 1894, when the ten years had expired, and the time for the plebiscite had come, that Peru was in a state of war. In 1898, in a time of flourishing quiet and returning confidence, perhaps Don Nicolás de Piérola was too sanguine in hoping for settlement. But now that tranquillity and order have distinguished the land of the Incas ever since he handed over office to Don José Pardo, (the son of that famous Don Manuel Pardo, whose death in 1878 was described by the "Times" as "an international calamity") and since that worthy son of a great father was succeeded by that able financier and strong upholder of Law, Dr. Leguía, the aggressiveness of Chile becomes a bullying assault on an attractive, diligent, and peaceful nation that is rapidly becoming the finest field for the investment of capital—not for mere speculation—in the world.

ABOUT 4 a.m. on the 4th instant a fire broke out at Gato, Matsura district, Nagasaki prefecture. The fire lasted about 6 hours, and destroyed altogether 300 houses, representing about one-third of the village.

THE British North Borneo Herald is informed that Sekong Estate obtained the splendid price of 132 3/4d. per lb. for the last lot of their rubber sold. This is the highest price obtained so far, and we heartily congratulate the management.

JUDGMENT was reserved by the Full Court this afternoon in the case in which John Lemm, architect, is seeking to have three judgments, delivered in connection with the recent criminal conversation case brought by Capt. T. A. Mitchell, reversed.

THE young Chinaman who is charged with the alleged murder of an aged compatriot at No. 4 Queen Victoria Street on the 25th May last, appeared before Mr. J. R. Wood at the Magistrate's court this afternoon and evidence having been called prisoner was remanded.

THE holders of the concession for the electric lighting of Sandakan have obtained a short extension of their option. This indicates that the scheme is still under serious consideration, and that one may shortly see the last of the old-fashioned oil lamps in the streets.

In the course of an action in the Summary Court this morning, Mr. Reader Harris stated that the case was one of those instances in which the defendant had paid in interest four times the amount of money borrowed and he asked his Lordship to make an order for the payment of a penny a month.

A STRIP of land on the Lewis Road, Sandakan, distant about one mile from the Government office, and 1 1/2 acres in area, was sold by auction at the Land Office on 27th ult., and realised the high price of $90. The land carries a rental of $3 per annum, and is planted up with coconuts and fruit trees.

THE P.M. steamer Siberia which left Yokohama for San Francisco on the afternoon of the 1st instant, was to have carried 28 Russian labourers (14 men and 14 women) from Koba for Honolulu. On the arrival of the steamer at Yokohama from Koba on the morning of the 1st, ten of these Russian passengers were found suffering from measles, two others having succumbed to the disease during the voyage, at about 7 a.m. on the 30th ultimo. The Japan Gazette states that the Yokohama Agent of the P.M. Co. asked all the Russian passengers to disembark here, but they at first refused to do so. The Russians were finally caused by the Harbour Police, at the instance of the Agent, to comply with his request, and the sufferers were received in the General Hospital. These passengers are to be sent to their destination as soon as the patients become convalescent. It is said that one of the Russians is mentally damaged.

In Rubber Land.

THE PLANTER'S LIFE.

(Special to the "Hongkong Telegraph.")

In these days when public interest is so much focussed upon all things pertaining to rubber, anyone who has had experience of life on the rubber fields of the Federated Malay States finds himself besieged with inquiries regarding the life that the planter leads. To begin with, it should at once be made clear that the planter in Malaya enjoys better working conditions than are the lot of planters in the Amazonas or on the Congo. In those areas the white planter has to face the terrible scourge of malaria in its most deadly form. In Malaya, unfortunately, malarial fever is a very prevalent evil (as the Prayer Book says) but it does not prevail in the virulent form that makes the rubber-grower's life a burden in those other regions. This is to say, a man who looks after himself and does not disdain the advice of those best qualified to judge, to take three or five grains of quinine a day, will seldom suffer ill consequences from malaria. Nearly all the estate bungalows in Malaya are MOSQUITO-PROOF.

After the style of the Customs out-stations in China. The use of mosquito-net, also, is de rigueur. As a rule, one would have to go upon a long day's march to discover a more healthy and healthful lot than the planters of Malaya. At one time the upland planters in the Malay country bore a general reputation for boisterousness and "high life," unsurpassed even by that of the old timers of Ceylon or of British North Borneo. In past years it was merely an incident in every-day life for a party of planters to descend upon Penang or any other convenient township and paint the place red. No one made objection. The invaders were the best of good fellows who for months had been hedged away and were only down from the wilds for a spell to spend their last quarter's earnings, renew old friendships, and break up hotel bars. But a change has come over the scene nowadays. The planter in these strenuous days has to lead a more rigid life and his dissipation is confined to a cocktail in the "Spotted Dog" at Kuala Lumpur or the sporting of a dress suit in the F.M.S. Hotel at 1.0.

According to recent newspapers from the Malay States, the Government are losing the services of many of their officials who are forsaking the cold shades of public service for the sunnier region of rubber-planting. This movement may lead to the misconception—and in some cases has done so—that for the work of a rubber planter no particular specific knowledge is required. This is not so. Most of the men who have deserted Government service for the rubber fields have a knowledge, at second-hand at any rate, of the conditions obtaining on the estates whilst they are one and all versed in the Malay language which is the lingua franca in the Peninsula for Chinese, Tamils, Javanese, Malays, and Europeans alike. Without those qualifications, one need hardly expect to find profit able employment on the rubber fields. So far as the

of the planter is concerned, it can hardly be described as arduous and yet it is certainly exacting. As a rule, the manager of an estate shares in the mess with his assistants and looks after their welfare. That this is no light responsibility may be easily imagined when one considers that most of the assistants are youths of good family at home, coming almost straight from school to associate with men very much their seniors in point of age, and transferred from the rigidity of home life to the coarsening social atmosphere of Malaya, where the motto of "Free and easy" is accepted as a maxim for the guidance of one's daily life.

But whatever reputation the planters of years past may have borne, those of the present day are a hard-working, capable set of men, fully alive to the importance of the interests which they represent, and desirous only of acting for the best on behalf of their principals. On the comparatively few estates which are fully planted up with rubber in bearing, the task of the planter is lightsome. He requires to supervise the process of tapping, of weed eradication, and of preparing the steps for the market. The round of his estate is easily made by pony-ride, and in a general way a double daily visit suffices. But in the case of estates undergoing the process of clearing, the work is strenuous in the extreme, requiring constant attention and direction.

The planter has to study the temper and disposition of the field labourers who work under him, to act as mediator in their constantly and quarrels and to further the interests of his shareholders in every way possible. The planter's assistants, by the way, usually come under the category of "creepers." The derivation of the term is vague, but its intent is obvious in the light of our proverb about a child having to creep before learning to walk. "Creepers" are youths who come out from home on a nominal salary to acquire acquaintance with rubber-planting methods and in many cases to become ultimately full-fledged planters. If not estate-owners, the work of the assistants on an estate entails constant vigilance and frequent visits to those parts of the plantation where operations are in active progress. The number of labourers on each section of the field has to be tallied morning and afternoon, and the result of the day's working has to be carefully entered up each evening. Apart from the "creepers," the assistants earn good salaries, and as a rule the life of a rubber planter is distinctly desirable. One drawback is the lack of social intercourse. Men on an up-country estate have few opportunities for visiting neighbouring townships, but the monotony of existence is pleasantly broken often times by the exchange of visits to neighbouring plantation "masters." The Malayan planters are deservedly noted for their hospitality and not was the visitor stranger would be allowed to "go empty away" from a planter's bungalow.

SIR CHEN TUNG.

SHADOWED BY DETECTIVES.

During the visit to Hongkong of His Excellency Sir Chen Tung, Chinese Minister-designate to Berlin, his personal safety from attack was a matter that caused no end of uneasiness amongst the authorities here. Sir Chen himself was not apprehensive of any personal violence, but the Police were unwilling to take any chances, and during His Excellency's sojourn in the Colony his movements were shadowed by numerous Chinese detectives. Apparently it was feared that an attempt might be made on the Minister's life by emissaries of the faction in Canton who have been so bitterly invective in their attacks upon Sir Chen's administration of the Canton-Hankow Railway. Fortunately, nothing but passive ill-feeling evinced itself.

THE COMPRADEORE ACTION.

DECISION BY THE CHIEF JUSTICE.

In the Supreme Court this morning, the Chief Justice, Sir Francis Figgott, delivered judgment in the case in which Yap Hok Lio, compradore to the Yokohama Specie Bank, of Kobe, Japan, sued Chai Tung Sang, of No. 4, Seymour Road, and No. 3, Shelley Street, to recover the equivalent in Hongkong dollars of Yen 600.00, together with interest on the sum at the rate of 6 per cent per annum from the 10th September, 1905, to payment or judgment. Mr. M. W. Slade, K.C., instructed by Mr. E. J. Grist, of Messrs. Wilkinson and Grist, appeared for the plaintiff and Mr. Eldon Potter, instructed by Mr. P. M. Hodgson, of Messrs. Ewans and Harrison, was for the defendant.

In the course of his judgment, his Lordship said that that was an action on a foreign judgment. Mr. Potter had expounded ideas, which he himself had advanced. If he might say so, he believed still more in Mr. Potter's views after having heard him, but he could not alter his view even after having heard substantial evidence. If he rejected plaintiff's story he should do so on a mere conjecture. Defendant's story was somewhat confused, he having made three different statements. Although a protest was not a solemn procedure, yet it was a formal procedure, and defendant ought to have given to the Court the full facts of the circumstances. Defendant said he was not connected with the firm and on being questioned he said he was not an active partner in the firm and then said that he had cancelled the guarantee. That Court had held that compradores were sureties to European firms in respect of their Chinese customers. The details were different in different cases but the broad principle of the system was the same in all instances, namely, that the compradore was liable to the firm in the event of non-payment by any of the firm's Chinese traders. If he adopted Mr. Potter's reasoning, he would be destroying the compradore system as it was at present existent. He therefore entered judgment for the plaintiff with costs.

Mr. Slade asked for judgment to be entered for the plaintiff with interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum.

Mr. Potter opposed interest being awarded the plaintiff, as the plaintiff, if he was suing on a guarantee, could make the defendant liable only for what he guaranteed. At any rate he asked for a stay of execution for a fortnight.

His Lordship—in the defendant resident here?

Mr. Potter—Yes, my Lord.

Mr. Slade—Whenever a storm arises, he retires to Bangkok.

His Lordship—He was in Peking, wasn't he?

Mr. Potter—He went to Peking but he's a naturalised British subject.

His Lordship—On what ground are you making the application?

Mr. Potter—On a point of law. I ask at least for a short time to consider the case. The point of law is not only important but it has never been decided before.

His Lordship—You must give some reason for the stay being granted. A stay of execution is not a matter of course.

Mr. Potter—No. Perhaps your Lordship will give me leave to apply.

His Lordship—I can't do that.

Mr. Potter—My friend is evidently afraid that defendant will run away. I'm willing to give security.

Mr. Slade—We are willing to take his wife's security.

His Lordship said he could not see his way to granting Mr. Potter's application.

Mr. Potter—As your Lordship pleases.

MONEY-LOAN ASSOCIATION CASE.

JUDGMENT DELIVERED.

In the Summary Court this morning, Mr. Justice Hazland, Acting Puisne Judge, delivered judgment in the case in which Chow Cham sued a young woman named Yuet Sum to recover the sum of $105, for 21 instalments due in respect of a $5 Money Loan Association, of which plaintiff is a promoter and defendant a member. Mr. E. Davidson, of Messrs. Harrison and Hastings, appeared for the plaintiff and Mr. D. V. Stevenson, of Messrs. Deacon, Looker and Deacon, was for the defendant.

His Lordship in giving judgment said that he was quite satisfied with plaintiff's story and entered judgment for the plaintiff with costs.

Mr. Stevenson said that having regard to the position of the defendant he asked for an order that the amount be paid in instalments. It was a rather large amount.

Mr. Davidson—I don't mind agreeing to instalment, but I don't know what defendant's position is.

His Lordship—Plaintiff may probably know. Defendant is a woman and probably she makes a lot of money.

An order was made for instalments of $25 a month.

THE WATER SERVICE.

DISCOLOURATION DUE TO LANDSLIP.

The Colonial Secretary informs us that the tuddy colour of the Tiam water, is due partly to the fact that the reservoir was so low when the recent heavy rain occurred and principally to a landslide which blocked the clear water channel from which it is usual to draw water after heavy rain till the reservoir clears. The water is perfectly good and sound and its colour need cause no alarm.

BORROWED MONEY FIVE YEARS AGO.

COLOURED MAN SUE BY INDIAN WATCHMAN.

Before Mr. Justice Hazland, Acting Puisne Judge, in the Summary Court this morning, Rattan Singh sued Abu Bakar, an African Indian, to recover the sum of $174.40, money due under a promissory note.

Mr. Harris (for the defendant) said they did not question the promissory note, but he asked for instalments. Defendant was getting $35 a month, and had children. He borrowed money from the plaintiff four or five years ago and in 1905 he renewed the promissory-note and paid $3 a month. Some time ago he had family troubles and missed two months, and now plaintiff sued him for the whole principal.

Plaintiff said he charged interest at the rate of 3 per cent per month and defendant paid interest for three months. He lent the principal on 16th July, 1910, but did not have any dealings with the defendant before. He did not lend him money four or five years ago. He did not receive $100 in interest.

Mr. Harris—How much interest did you charge every month?

Plaintiff—$5 for $100.

His Lordship—Do you consent to instalment?

Plaintiff—I leave it to your Lordship's hands. Defendant said he drew $35 a month. He borrowed some money four or five years ago and after he paid the money he destroyed the promissory note. Nobody except the plaintiff saw the action.

His Lordship—If your story is true, it is rather important that you should keep these notes.

Defendant—Plaintiff told me to destroy it, it was no use.

Do you owe money to other people?

Defendant—No.

How many children have you?—Five.

An order was made for instalments of $7 a month, first instalment to be paid on the 1st of July.

CLAIM BY CHINESE SEAMEN.

AGAINST THE HAMBURG-AMERIKA LINE.

Before Mr. Justice Hazland, Acting Puisne Judge, in the Summary Court this morning, Mr. Huog, of Messrs. Deacon, Looker and Deacon, again asked for a day to be fixed for the hearing of the case in which six Chinese seamen are seeking to recover over $500 from the Hamburg-Amerika Line for alleged wrongful dismissal.

Mr. Davidson said that he had been instructed by his client to ask his Lordship that the case be allowed to stand over for another week. There were at least two points of great difficulty involved.

Mr. Huog—My friend is trying to delay the hearing of the case to—

His Lordship—Oh, no.

Mr. Huog—Any delay is a very serious matter to my clients.

The case was allowed to stand over.

FORGERY OF JAPANESE TRADE-MARKS IN CHINA.

REPRESENTATION TO CHINESE AUTHORITIES.

It is interesting to learn from the Asahi that the practice of forging Japanese trade-marks has much increased of late among Chinese match manufacturers. Mr. Takigawa, a well-known match manufacturer of Kobe, recently visited China to look into the matter. On his return home, Mr. Takigawa, applied to the Japanese and Chinese Governments through the Kobe Chamber of Commerce asking that measures be taken to suppress the practice complained of. A report from the Consul-General at Canton on the question has been referred to the Kobe Chamber of Commerce by the Foreign Office. The substance of the report is that the Viceroy of Liangkiang, who issued an order prohibiting the forgery of trade-marks, refused to admit that the counterfeits of the "Lin," "Dragon," and two or three marks were forgeries, on the ground that there was a difference in the colour and design between the genuine mark and the alleged counterfeit. On the 20th instant the Consul-General had an interview with the Viceroy and showed him the genuine and forged trade-marks, urging him to take due measures to stop the practice. The Viceroy appeared impressed by the comparison made. He stated that when he declined to recognise these marks as counterfeit, he had no personally compared the two trade-marks, but had relied upon the reports of local authorities, who declared that the marks were quite different. The Viceroy accepted the forged labels from the Consul-General and promised to institute investigations into the matter. He subsequently referred the question to the Kwangtung General Chamber of Commerce, ordering that body to consider the matter.—Japan Chronicle.

RECENT advice from Zimbarwe province indicate that the "red-rope" is creating great havoc with the cattle in the district from the Ologopo. Captain Washington Greyson has formed a considerable number of "red-rope" for the purpose of destroying the "red-rope" and generally co-operating with the local authorities, and the Government is an effort to suppress the "red-rope" disease.

NEW SHAMEN'S INSTITUTE.

Preparatory to the opening ceremony tomorrow of the Shammen's Institute, handsome brass tablets have been erected in the hall of the institution and on the stairway, chronicling the name of the donor, Sir Horatio N. Mody, and of H.E. Sir Henry May, who is to declare the building open.

STREET DUST NUISANCE.

To the Editor of the "Hongkong Telegraph." Dear Sir,—Is there any among the long-suffering residents in Hongkong who has not been subjected to the inconveniences, if not the positive danger, of street dust in Hongkong? The practice of sweeping the principal thoroughfares in the City to the annoyance of residents during the tiffi hour has formed the subject of loud and persistent complaint so long in the columns of the local Press, that one wearies to bring it to public notice again. But if the guards of public health are not above accepting a suggestion from a humble scribe it will serve some useful purpose if they learn that the Health Department of the Tokyo City Office has made a trial of a new material for the prevention of street dust. The new material is calcium chloride, sent by the American Trading Company, of Yokohama, for a trial. It was sprinkled in a lane near the Teikoku theatre, Yurakucho, Kojimachi. Heavy rain has since fallen twice, but the powder is not entirely washed away. Calcium chloride is a combination of chlorine and calcium contained in lime. It is originally in the form of cakes of white colour, but a company of Norwich, England, sells it in the form of a powder, and the American Trading Company, of Yokohama, is its sole agent here. As for the virtues of calcium chloride it is stated, that when it is sprinkled on the street, it not only prevents the rise of dust by absorbing the water from the ground and the moisture of the air, but it kills the germs of disease in the air. It is, therefore, good for the health of the citizens. But the difficulty is that its cost is very high. At present the expenditure for sprinkling water in Yokohama is 7.8 sen per tubo for one year, but calcium chloride will cost 8 sen per tubo for one time only, without taking into account the expenses needed for the sprinkling of it. And the effect of calcium chloride will last only for one month, though the company says it will continue for three months.

It is just possible that the alleged impoverished condition of the Colonial purse might prevent the general use in Hongkong of this new material. But if it possesses all the virtues claimed for it, might not a small quantity be obtained and tried in the most frequented, business part of the City? Des Voeux Road and Pedder's Street and the lower north section of the House Road could usefully be treated with the calcium chloride to the great benefit and comfort of the business population.—Yours, etc.,

JAPANESE COMMERCIAL FLEET.

The latest official return shows that the total number of Japanese vessels in service at the end of April was 8,510, viz. 1,665 steamers, representing a total tonnage of 1,208,489 tons; 4,850 sailing vessels, of 326,531 tons; and 1,996 koku-bune (junks), of 6,056 koku. As compared with the corresponding period of last year, these figures show an increase of 40 steamers, of 44,381 tons. During the year two steamers between 2,000 tons and 3,000 tons each, and one between 300 and 500 tons were sold or broken up. The additions comprised twenty-nine steamers from 20 to 100 tons, five between 100 and 300 tons, three between 300 and 1,000 tons, three between 1,000 and 2,000 tons, three between 2,000 and 3,000 tons, five between 3,000 and 4,000 tons, five between 4,000 and 5,000 tons, and one between 5,000 and 10,000 tons. The sailing vessels, increased by 264, representing a total tonnage of 1,899. Of vessels between 20 and 100 tons 260 were added to the list. The junks increased by 561 in number and 169,057 koku.—Kobe Herald.

This export of Japanese cotton yarn from the 1st to the 27th ultimo amounted to 30,083 bales, and the total for the whole month was estimated at about 33,000 bales, allowance being made for shipments the remaining four days. The Japan Chronicle understands that, Indian yarn having been sold at a sacrifice at Shanghai, Japanese yarn has been much affected, and little business has been doing lately. However, a considerable quantity is to be delivered on contracts made for forward delivery, while 4,000 bales taken delivery of by the Japan Raw Cotton Company on time bargain on the Osaka Yarn Exchange are to be shipped this month. It is therefore probable that the export this month will not fall off to any great extent.

SUGAR IN JAPAN.

DAI NIPPON SUGAR COMPANY.

In reference to the position of the Dai Nippon Sugar Company, the Nipponese state that the readjustment of the company's affairs undertaken by the new board of directors has been progressing favourably. The net profit for the present half-year is estimated at over ¥900,000, it is proposed to devote to its settlement of debts. If the scheme proposed by the board is carried out, the company's financial position will stand as follows:—

Legal reserve..... ¥916,000
Special reserve..... ¥161,100
Profit for the present period..... ¥900,000

Total..... ¥2,000,000
Loss brought over from the preceding period..... ¥1,000,000
It is proposed to make good the outstanding loss out of the reserves and the profit, the balance of ¥900,000 being made the nucleus of a reserve. In the past the money receivable from sugar sold for forward delivery was added to the revenue, but this method is to be changed, and it is proposed to add such money to the profit only when it is actually received. When this is done it is thought the revenue in the next account will be much increased. Bad debts will be written off. If the ten years' readjustment scheme be slightly modified and the profit for each half-year be devoted to the settlement of the price of the Dairy Mill—¥6,000,000—and the payment of the debentures now standing at ¥7,000,000, concludes the Nippon, the readjustment of the company's affairs will be expedited, as the Dairy mill will then have been bought in instalments. How the sugar tax in arrears is to be settled is not stated, and indeed the whole article seems to be devoted to putting the affairs of the company in the most rosy light.

IMPORT OF FORMOSAN SUGAR.

The Asahi reports that between January 1st last and the 3rd instant the quantity of Formosan crude sugar imported into Tokyo and Yokohama amounted to 1,236,336 bags, of which 610,761 bags were brown sugar, while the Formosan crude sugar stored in the Tokyo, Toshima, and Central warehouses in Tokyo and Yokohama amounts to 615,000 bags. In the Tokyo and Yokohama districts, including the two cities, the consumption of sugar in the past five months amounted to 84,000 bags per month on an average.—Japan Chronicle.

HARBOUR COLLISION.

JUNK SUNK OFF STATUE WHARF.

A collision, fortunately unattended by the loss of any lives, occurred in the harbour yesterday forenoon. A small cargo junk collided with one of the numerous European launches that were doing in and out of the narrow ways opposite Statue Wharf. Such was the force of the impact that the junk sprang a leak and rapidly began to fill with water. That she had seen her best days was proved by the fact that the junk was soon a mass of floating splinters scattered over the surface of the water nearly in front of the Hongkong Club. The occupants of the junk made frantic efforts to recover their valuables, consisting of nothing more than a few pieces of clothing, bedding and cashiers, from the wreck. We understand that the matter of the junk was compensated to the extent of $50 by the owners of the launch on account of the collision.

In the afternoon, the broken spar, mast head and salvaged portions of the boat were piled up on the seawall with their owners squatting on the remains of their broken craft and regarding the situation with philosophic equanimity.

THE "SARAWAK BANDJAH".

UNDERGOING THOROUGH OVERHAUL.

The s.s. Sarawak Bandjah, which has been purchased by Mr. K. C. Wilks of Hongkong, is now in the course of undergoing repairs at the dockyard of the Hongkong and Whampoa Dock Company at Kowloon. The purchase was effected in Singapore, where the vessel was lying previous to her acquisition by Mr. Wilks. A big sum of money is to be spent in refitting the Sarawak, mostly in the way of replacement of damaged plates, and she has an excellent frame there is little doubt that she will be equipped up for trading purposes on the China coast. We hear that the purchaser has already had several advantageous offers for the re-sale of the steamer when she leaves the Dock. While the hands of the Dock Company the Sarawak will undergo a thorough overhaul.

CHANGS IN THE CHINA SQUADRON.

As much comment has been made locally upon the withdrawal of all the British battleships from the China Squadron, it is interesting to note that this class of vessel is about to reappear on the China coast. In the course of the next two or three months, H.M.S. Swiftsure and Triumph are due to arrive in Hongkong. These battleships are presently attached to the Mediterranean Force and are being relieved by the Agamemnon and the Lord Nelson, which are being refitted in England.

It is now some years ago since a British battleship was seen in Hongkong waters. Formerly we had the Glory, the Albion, the Centurion, the Orion, and the Dayflower—all of which were recalled to home waters towards the conclusion of the Russo-Japanese war. Now, apparently, the British Government are beginning to realize the necessity for upholding the prestige of the Flag in Eastern seas by means of the presence of the latest type of war-vessels. The Swiftsure and the Triumph were bought by Great Britain while they were still on the stocks in the order of a South American Republic and although not approaching the Dreadnought class they are types of the most modern developments in construction and equipment.

CHINESE STRIKE IN BANGKOK.

They have been having quite lively times in Bangkok lately owing to the Chinese going on strike because they have to pay an increased poll tax. The following account from the Siam Observer gives some details:—

The much-talked-of strike of Chinese on account of their objections to paying the Capitation Tax took place on June 1. The strikers, having given notice of their intention, could scarcely be surprised that the Government took all reasonable steps to meet it and did so in a way which must have rather surprised those who organised the affair. The result of the whole thing was that when Bangkok awoke this morning the place was simply alive with police and, in some places, soldiers. The result was that over acts and acts of violence, at first feared, were speedily seen to be rather too risky for the Cantonese and Chinese who have been at the head of the movement to attempt, and, as a result, the day has passed off very quietly.

The first noteworthy sign of the approaching strike, if strike it can be called, took place yesterday afternoon, when there was a regular rush for foodstuffs in the markets. Every one appeared to be laying in stores of rice, dried fish, salt, sugar and kindred commodities, as though to stand a siege of some days. The natural result of this was that the petty traders put up their prices and in some instances doubled or tripled them. Last night the Chinese bakers and butchers struck work and this may be regarded as the real beginning of the troubles. The bakers were quite alive to their own interests, however, and some, who usually call only in the mornings, came also in the evening and delivered their customary supply for to-day. The Chinese butchers having slaughtered no cattle, the B. M. C. and the Indian butchers sensibly seized their opportunity and killed an extra quantity, the result being that beef was obtainable as usual and at the usual rates, while there were little less than the usual amount of fruit and vegetables in the market.

The riksha towkays having decided to join in the strike, they this morning withdrew their vehicles from the streets, and these latter seemed to greatly benefit by the change. But they looked odd for, in many districts, all the shops were shut. This, it may be stated, was not in any way due to their prior sympathy with the striking Chinese but simply through fear. There seems to have been some doubt as to whether the Cantonese fitters and boiler-makers, employed at Messrs. Howarth Erskine and by the Bangkok Dock Co., would join in the strike. They settled this question themselves by doing so and they were joined in their action by most of the carpenters and blacksmiths. The wharf coolies at Messrs. Windsor and Co's and those at the other wharves, along the river side promptly followed suit and it was difficult to get a Chinese coolie of any kind willing to work at anything all day. In the rice-mills, however, things were somewhat different, and some of the mills have been in full work all the time, although others have closed down.

Extremely serious though the strike has been, it has its lighter side and comic interludes have been fairly frequent. One of these was the spectacle of a well-known and popular high official killing a pig, coram populo, in a shop at Talat Noi. He did it in quite an artistic and butchery manner too, but at the expense of a handsome silk panyau. I saw a much-respected local resident carrying something in a pocket handkerchief which turned out to be about a couple of pounds of very scraggy looking beef-steak. When I met him he was complaining bitterly about not being able to obtain any bread; a sad state of affairs, truly, since he had invited a couple of friends to dinner just prior to discovering that his cook and boy had vanished.

SARAWAK OPIUM FARM.

GOVERNMENT RELEASES FARMERS FROM THEIR CONTRACT.

The following item of news is taken from the Sarawak Gazette of June 1:—
The present opium farmers having got into difficulties as regards the rent for the farms, resulting in a breach of their agreement, the government have found it necessary to release the farmers from their contract at the end of this current month. A company or syndicate is being formed and will take over the farms from July 1 next for one year and it is hoped that from the experience gained during that period a system may be evolved under which the business can be permanently run with local capital to the advantage both of the government and the inhabitants of Sarawak. Government will supply a certain portion of the capital required, will be represented on the board by three government officers, and will receive a fixed monthly payment as well as a dividend upon the money which it invests. One half of the balance of the capital is to be subscribed by the Hokien Chinese who will be represented by two directors elected by themselves, and the remaining half by the other Chinese merchants and others who will also choose two directors.

ANOTHER RECORD FOR THE "MINNESOTA."

STEAMSHIP, WITH SILK CARGO, REACHES HATTEL IN TWELVE DAYS.

We are informed by Mr. C. F. McWilliams, General Agent for China, Japan and the Philippines of the Great Northern S.S. Co., that a cable from Seattle, announces the arrival of the Co's s.s. Minnesota from Yokohama on Friday morning, the 17th inst. This is another record trip for the big boat, as she sailed a day late and got in a day ahead of schedule time. Her schedule sailing date from Yokohama was Saturday, May 21st, and her schedule date for reaching Seattle, June 4th, but she left Yokohama on Sunday afternoon, May 22nd, and actually reached Seattle as stated, on the morning of June 3rd. The boat will be of interest to silk shippers, as the Minnesota carried 72,241 bales of silk from this port, besides 205 from Hongkong.—Japan Herald.

COMMERCIAL.

RUBBER MARKET.

Hongkong, 17th June.

The promising outlook at the beginning of the week, when the market opened strong in sympathy with a rise in the price of Rubber, was not sustained throughout the week. The smart sport in the price of shares was soon checked and a recession took place, bringing rates down several points though not to the depth touched during the preceding week. Sales have been few and far between, though a better evidence is apparent of an inquiry for Singapore stocks. The market closes rather staid.

SYNTHETIC RUBBER.

A patent of Dr. John Blum of Brussels is based upon what he claims to be a glutinous hydro-carbon. The process is thus described:—

The first part of this invention consists in the production of this glutinous hydro-carbon and the second in the process for converting it into rubber. Turf or peat is subjected in the presence of water to fermentation by a ferment such as that found in imperfectly formed rubber, or as that which produces the higher olefine alcohols. Peat is employed which contains a percentage of birch-leaves, as they contain a wax-like substance which is one of the chief constituents required in the process.

To obtain a supply of the ferment a piece of imperfectly formed rubber is placed in a saccharine solution and placed in the sunshine. After a few days the solution develops numerous threads of the colour of milk. A ton of peat or turf is placed in a zinc lined fermenting chamber with a ton of water and six fluid ounces of the ferment. A saccharine solution is made of about five gallons of water with 1lb of sugar, and the solution is sprayed over the peat in the mass to render fermentation uniform. The chamber is then closed and kept at a temperature between 140deg and 160deg F. for a period of three weeks.

The glutinous hydrocarbon obtained in this manner is placed in a cylinder having a steam jacket, together with 2lb of a brownish red granular substance obtained from Congo rubber, one ton of peat, and 17oz of commercial sodium carbonate. A solution containing 3oz of chalk slacked by means of small quantities of hydrochloric acid till effervescence ceases is then added. A second cylinder is employed half filled with water, containing three gallons of methylated spirit. The cylinder containing the peat and other ingredients is then boiled for four hours by means of its steam jacket, and allowed to cool. The other cylinder is then heated sufficiently by means of its steam jacket to evaporate the methylated spirit and water. As the contents of the peat cylinder cool a semi-liquid mass floats on the surface, and this is the artificial rubber. To purify it communication is now made with the adjoining spirit cylinder in which a vacuum has been formed during cooling, and the rubber passes over into the spirit solution, from which it is removed by a perforated tray. The product, artificial Para rubber, according to the specification, can then be pressed into moulds.
